

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON EQUIPMENT FOR HIKING HUT TO HUT IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

1. Our packing list covers what we have found to be essential for your safety and comfort. Because you will be carrying everything you bring, please use discretion when adding to the list.
2. Well-fitting, sturdy boots are very important to your safety and enjoyment. If you plan to buy new boots, break them in by wearing them around town and taking some short hikes before your trip. If you feel your ankles are strong, you can use either leather boots or lightweight cordura boots. Leather boots may be waterproofed in various simple ways, and cordura boots will be waterproof if they're lined with Gore-Tex (although many people find that the extra expense of the Gore-Tex is not justified by their performance). If you have weak ankles or are recovering from an ankle injury, get leather boots or good quality cordura ones – you'll find that this will give you more support in uneven or slippery terrain.
3. Bring a sleeping sack, sleeping bag liner, or sheet. Each bunk comes with a pillow (you can use a t-shirt as pillow case) and three blankets.
4. Synthetic fabrics are often specified on this equipment list: Capilene, Thermastat, Polartec and Gore-Tex. In addition, there are many other patented brand names used by different manufacturers, which can make it all seem even more complicated. Basically, they all have one thing in common: The synthetics do not absorb much water compared to cotton—thus, they continue to provide warmth when wet. The specific fabric name is not as important as having material with these qualities and having a variety of weights available to you as your layering system. They really are miracle fabrics. Wool is also a very good choice, especially some of the new clothing made by Ibex or Smartwool. It is 100% merino wool, keeps you warm and dry and is not itchy. It also doesn't absorb the odors the way many synthetic materials do. You can also buy less expensive wool clothes at a second hand or Army/Navy store. Cotton is not a good choice! Wet cotton (even heavyweight sweats) will rob you of your body heat faster than if you were wearing no clothing at all.
5. It is very important to your safety and enjoyment to have an independent ability for accessing your water. As you are hiking you will need water to be accessible in order to drink frequently. One method is to have a water bottle attached to your waist strap. Another option is to use a HYDRATION SYSTEM such as CamelBak, Platypus, and Gregory bladder bags which are simply a collapsible water bag with a hose attachment that you drink from. These fit inside your pack with the hose positioned over your shoulder where you can access your water without the use of your hands. Some models are designed to attach to the outside of your pack. Bladder bags can hold 40-100oz. of water. Instead of carrying 3 one-quart water bottles you could carry one 100 oz. bladder bag. Consider bringing an extra bladder bag in case one develops a leak.

Items on your packing list can be purchased through a number of outdoor outfitters. Here are three companies that offer mail order service and have internet "stores" (often with special deals):
