Trip Overview

The White Mountains of New Hampshire were once called the "Crystal Hills" by the early settlers due to their granite faces that reflected sunlight in the valley below. They have been drawing tourists since the mid-1800s when most visitors made the trip from cities by train or horse-drawn carriages. At that time, families came to the Whites to spend a month or more enjoying the fresh air, wonderful hiking, and lofty vistas. This trip is designed to give you an overview of what is available and introduce you to the diversity of the Whites. Hiking is the most traditional sport in the area and with over 1,200 miles of trail to choose from, the options are endless. We'll also take advantage of favorite local activities: kayaking the Pemi and biking the (downhill) biking trail, visiting the Flume Gorge, and exploring the historic Mount Washington Hotel. Our pace will be leisurely to allow us to notice and enjoy the diversity of the forests and meadows and be awed and inspired by the vistas. Whether you are intrigued by forest flora and fauna, birds, waterfalls, mountain vistas, learning about the cultural history, or just seeking less traveled paths, you will quickly understand why the White Mountains continue to draw us to their beauty and majesty.

OUR ITINERARY

Below is the itinerary we have planned for the trip. As is true on any adventure travel trip, plans for any specific day may be modified due to weather considerations, unforeseen circumstances, new opportunities, and group interests.

DAY 1

Our journey begins at 10 a.m. at the Manchester Airport or 12 p.m. at the Notch Hostel in Woodstock, NH. We will have introductions and a welcome picnic lunch before heading down the Kancamagus highway to Greely Pond Trail. Our hike to scenic Upper Greely Pond is a good introduction to the rocky paths of the White Mountains but without some of the elevation gain that is typical of mountain trails. If it's a hot day, the pond offers a standing invitation to take a quick dip before heading back. Returning by the same trail, we'll make our way back to Woodstock and our accommodations for the week. We'll begin by settling into our lodging and sharing the first of many delicious dinners. Lodging: The Notch Hostel, Woodstock, NH Mileage: 3.4 miles (L, D)

DAY 2

Today's hike is a local favorite - the Welch - Dickey Loop Trail. Welch and Dickey Mountains were two of the mountains visited earliest by regular summer tourists to the White Mountains. Nathaniel Greeley, who pioneered the Waterville Valley in the 1830s, created a system of trails in this area that led directly to his inn. Although the inn no longer exists, the trail - especially the Welch-Dickey loop trail, continues to be a favorite. The trail is moderately graded and both mountains are well below 3,000 feet in elevation, but both have several open rocky ledges with amazing views of the valley below. Naturalists also love this loop because of its diversity of trees, including one of only four stands of jack pine in New Hampshire. Be prepared for some rock scrambling on this trail, as well as exposed granite slabs near the top. Hiking: 4.4 miles (B, L, D)

DAY 3

Off to the water! Today we'll kayak a section of the "Pemi", a local favorite with beautiful water and just enough "white water" to give us a good ride. After shuttling to our put-in, we will have both paddling and safety instruction on land before launching our kayaks on the river. Our pace will be relaxed with time to enjoy the scenery and the water. We will stop for a picnic lunch at one of the many sand beaches along the way and enjoy both our lunch and a refreshing dip. While our exact route will depend on the water level, we will canoe 7.5 to 10 miles, about 3-5 hours on the water. No previous kayaking experience is necessary to enjoy this delightful day. Returning to our vehicles, we'll indulge in another local favorite - ice cream! The perfect after kayaking treat! After returning to our lodging, the rest of the late afternoon is free and you may choose to relax with a good book, take a short stroll around the area, relax on the deck or porch, use the sauna, or anticipate an after-dinner fire at the fire pit once the evening cools down. We will meet again for appetizers on the deck before heading out to one of the local favorite restaurants for dinner 'on the town' tonight. Mileage today will be determined by water levels and our put in and take out spots. (B,L,D)

DAY 4

Back to our hiking boots - today we will hike the Zealand Falls trail. This trail is a beautiful hike through scenic forest, past marshes, and alongside the rushing Zealand River. Our destination is one of the Appalachian Mountain Club huts, Zealand Hut, located next to the spectacular Zealand Falls with a view to match. This is where we'll enjoy the picnic lunch we've packed. For dessert - the hut's "croo" always has something freshly baked along with lemonade for purchase - let's hope for their chocolate chip cookies! After returning to our vehicles, we'll head to the historic Mount Washington Hotel. The hotel has been and continues to be a favorite New England retreat of not only those of us who appreciate history and a bit of pampering but also presidents, poets, and celebrities. It is also the place where the International Monetary Conference was held after WWII and articles of agreement signed that established the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD) and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) that still stands today. We'll grab a rocker on the back porch (with the Crawford Ridge and Mount Washington as our view) and enjoy a refreshing drink before wandering a bit - soaking in the beauty and the history of this historic and majestic hotel. Mileage: 5.6 miles (B,L,D)

DAY 5

We have an exciting day planned today, but first? Breakfast! To fortify us for our adventures today, we'll begin the day with breakfast out of the hostel to try some local favorites. Next up, we are biking! We'll take a leisurely bike ride on the Franconia Notch Bike Path (north to south) to the Flume where we'll enjoy our picnic lunch before touring the Flume. The Flume is one of the White Mountain's unique geological formations and while a bit more touristy than the other places we have hiked so far; this is not any ordinary waterfall and well worth a visit. Discovered in 1808, the Flume is a natural gorge extending 800 feet at the base of Mount Liberty. The walls of Conway granite rise to a height of 70 to 90 feet and are 12 to 20 feet apart. We start at the Flume Visitor Center, framed by a spectacular vista of Mount Liberty and Mount Flume. The 2-mile walk, partly on a boardwalk and part on a gravel path, is moderately graded with some up/downstairs. There are many opportunities for photographs and our pace will be relaxed as we explore this scenic site. Biking: 6 miles. Walking: 2 miles (B,L,D)

DAY 6

Our last day of hiking in the White Mountains will bring us to one of New Hampshire's famed 4,000 footers - Mount Moosilauke! With a summit at 4,800 feet, this will be our most challenging hike of the week but by now our muscles are well-tuned and our spirit of adventure is high! We will take the Gorge Brook Trail, starting at the Moosilauke Ravine Lodge. To start, the trail follows the Gorge Brook, winding through forests at a steady grade. The trail eventually gains in steepness as several switchbacks bring you towards the tree line. You'll be able to see just what hiking a New Hampshire 4,000-footer is all about! Don't be fooled by the false summit. From here, it's just a bit further to the true summit, where we can soak in the scenery and enjoy our lunch. The summit of Moosilauke is treeless and offers spectacular 360-degree views of the surrounding area, including the Presidential Range, Franconia Ridge, and Lake Winnepesaukee. This trail is 7 miles round trip, with a total of 2,500 feet of gain. We'll return to our home in time to "freshen up" a bit before going out on the town for our final farewell dinner. (B,L,D)

DAY 7

Sadly, our week in the Whites does have to end. If you are driving, you can plan to leave any time after breakfast. If you are flying, we will have you back to the Manchester Airport in time to fly out any time after 1:00 p.m. (B)
